Report on AI/ML in Wireless Sensor Networks

Date: 26-01-2021

A professional development training program on the topic “AI/ML in Wireless Sensor Networks” was conducted by Dr. Rabindranath Bhattacharya, an expert and researcher in the area of wireless sensor networks for the faculty of Computer Science and Engineering. Dr. Rabindranath focused on the integration of AI/ML in the networking area and explained about the details of possible research opportunities in the field. He had also given the details of various platforms and software to work with Wireless Sensor Networks. A total of 35 faculty members have attended training and expressed their happiness to be a part of program.

Report on 5G Cellular Capabilities and Implementation

Date: 30-04-2021

A professional development training program on the topic “5G Cellular Capabilities and Implementation” was conducted by Mr. Somasekhar, an expert in the area of Cellular and Satellite communications the faculty of Electronics and Communications Engineering. Mr. Somasekhar presented on how to simulate various cellular communications. Also, being an expert in the domain various enhanced capabilities of 5G were clearly explained to the participants. Various types of networking architecture which are used in this advanced networking and communication field were presented. A total of 20 faculty members have attended training and expressed their happiness to be a part of program.
